ABSTRACT

Information for the 1985-86 school year presented in this fifth annual report on microcomputer use in 1,368 public and private K-12 schools in Louisiana indicates that, overall, 85% of the schools are using computers for instruction or other purposes. Detailed survey results are presented in 17 data tables, which show: (1-2) the number and percentage of schools that do and do not use computers; (3) computer utilization by grade level; (4) distribution of computer use by subject area; (5) number of computers in schools; (6) number of computers by brand and model; (7) use of computers and number of students served; (8) locations of computer use (e.g., computer lab, classroom, library); (9) number of boys, girls, and special education students in classes using computers; (10) schools with special programs encouraging girls or special education students to use computers; (11) number of students with access to district computer planning; (12) computer software sources; (13) sources of computer equipment maintenance; (14) sources of and number of teachers receiving computer training; (15) number of schools using electronic technologies along with computers; (16) sources of funding for computer purchase; (17) number of schools by type purchasing computers from the state contract; and (18) ratings of usefulness of services. Also included are recommendations from the Louisiana Department of Education, the survey instrument, and appendices of raw data from the survey. The appendices make up more than half of the report. ## FINDINGS

Of the schools contacted, 1,368 responded voluntarily to the survey. All 66 LEA's had schools that responded. In the first year's survey, only 40 LEA's had microcomputers in one or more schools. Currently, 1,158 of the responding schools are using computers in instruction and 210 are not (Table 1). These figures indicate 85 percent of the schools are using computers this year compared with 84 percent last year, 81 percent in 83-84, 32 percent in 82-83, and 27 percent in 81-82 (Table 2). The distribution of instructional computing across grades (Table 3) shows that all grade levels--K through 12--are involved, with the most involvement again at the fifth grade level. Last year grade 5 replaced grade 12 as the grade with the most computer use. Of interest is the increase in activity in grades 3, 4, 5, and 6. Table 4 shows the distribution of computer use across subject areas. Once again, the computer is used most in mathematics courses.

A total of 482 computers was reported by the schools in January of 1982; in 82-83 the total was 1,373; in 83-84 the total was 4,350. Last year the number was 6,844. This year's total was 12,717. The rate at which schools are acquiring computers is not slowing down (Table 5).

After four years in a row in which the Tandy Corporation computers were the most widely used computers (Table 6), Apple computers are now number one. This year the Apple computers represent 32.9 percent of the units, and Tandy computers are next with 23.3 percent. Once again Franklin, which is Apple compatible, is in third place with 17.4 percent.

The numbers of schools employing the computer in the following functional areas are listed from most used to least used in Table 7. Computer Assisted Instruction and Computer Education Instruction were first and second in number of schools.

Again this year the computer laboratory was the most common location for the computers (Table 8), followed by the regular classroom, which was number two last year and number one the year before.

Equal access is of major interest to educators. Table 9 indicates that of the students taking courses in which a computer is used, 52 percent are girls and 48 percent are boys. About 7 percent of these boys and girls in such courses are Special Education students other than Gifted and Talented. According to the Louisiana Department of Education's Annual Report, the general school population of 942,000 public and nonpublic students includes about 7 percent such Special Education students. These data indicate that though not all public and nonpublic students have access to the computer, there is no bias because of sex or Special Education exceptionality. Last year 57 schools reported having special programs to encourage girls to take such courses, and 257 schools having special programs to encourage the Special Education group. This year both categories increased. There are 134 schools with programs to encourage girls and 573 with programs to encourage Special Education students (Table 10).

The number of schools with access to district planning has increased. Of the schools responding 42 percent have access to a district computer plan, 52 percent to a hardware purchase process, 48 percent to a software purchase process, 28 percent to an approved software list, and 32% to software evaluation (Table 11).

The most frequent source of computer software is the commercial software vendor again this year (Table 12). Software from the Minnesota Education Computing Corporation (MECC) distributed through the Louisiana Department of Education was second. The public domain software and software written by teachers were third and fourth in numbers of schools. Other responses included software written by students and software from lending libraries.

Nine hundred thirty-one schools reported that their computer maintenance was provided by the local vendor (Table 13).

More teachers were trained this year; 11,641 teachers received training through inservice workshops in the past year (Table 14). The 1,085 schools that reported teachers trained in workshops averaged 11 teachers trained. Some training was provided through college courses and seminars.

Table 15 shows the number of schools using other technologies. Videotapes were most widely used, followed by Instructional Television. Schools indicated that the most popular source of funds used to purchase computers was the parent teacher organization, followed by Chapter I funds (Table 16). Businesses which were reported as a source of funds for the purchase of computers included Apple, Chevron, Dow Chemical, Gen. Adv. Cmty., General Motors, International Paper Co., and Walmart. The foundations included Drew Foundation and Lions Club. Other responses included alumni, bond issue monies, compensatory education funds, desegregation funds, federal funds, special education funds, grants, private donors, school fund raisers, school clubs, and tuition fees. Of the schools that responded to the question concerning purchasing computers from the state contract, 37 percent of the public schools used the contract and 19 percent of the Catholic Schools used the contract (Table 17).

Certain questions of interest from earlier surveys were dropped, since the past data collected indicated that probably no new information would be gained from repeating the questions each year. Over the past few surveys, inservice teacher training was selected as a top need. This year a hotline to answer questions on computers and computer software received top rating as a potential service that would be useful to the schools. Access to large databases, such as provided through SOURCE and Bibliographical Retrieval Services, was ranked number two in usefulness (Table 18).

CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

This study indicated that the number of computers is still increasing. This year the schools reported an increase of 5,873 computers, or 86 percent over the number reported last year. The previous year's increase was 2,494 computers, or 57 percent. Our educational community has embraced this technological aid by providing both equipment and programs on their own initiative at the LEA level. About half of the computers in the schools run Apple-compatible software. This represents the largest compatible group that can share software. Next is Tandy Radio Shack at 23 percent, followed by Commodore at 8 percent.

The Louisiana Department of Education should continue to provide assistance in the following areas:

1. Computer Awareness workshops for teachers and administrators.

2. Preparation and distribution of packages providing information concerning (a) instructional uses of the computer, (b) guidelines for acquisition of microcomputer hardware and software, and (c) guidelines for integrating the computer into the curricula of the schools. The Curriculum Guide for Computer Literacy was piloted this past school year.

3. Establishment of a statewide network of Computing Resource Centers through which the Department can aid in the orchestration of developing and distributing instructional computing resources and services to the educational community.

4. Participation on a State level in regional and national educational computing organizations, such as the Minnesota Educational Computing Corporation, that develop, distribute, and/or evaluate instructional software.

5. Establishment of a structure and process to continue to identify problems and the changing needs in this area. The recent formation of a statewide task force on computer literacy represents a beginning in this area.

The microcomputer is in our homes and schools. The Department's continued active guidance in Computer education is needed to reduce waste and confusion and to encourage maximal benefits from this technological aid to education.

APPENDICES AND THEIR USES

The appendices are designed to enable educators to locate schools using similar computers in similar areas in order to share ideas, educational materials, software, and hardware information.

Appendix A shows the survey instrument.

Appendix B indicates in which grade levels and subject areas schools reported using computers. The schools are listed within parish. The left-most column contains the name of the school. The other columns represent grade levels K through 12 and the subject areas. A nonblank character in a column indicates that the school listed reported using the computer in that grade level or subject area.

Appendix C shows the make and model of computer listed by school. Appendix D shows the schools using computers listed by make. Suppose Ms. Brown, a teacher in Caddo Parish, is planning to use the computer in a business class, Appendix B would be used to locate schools in Caddo and neighboring parishes that are using computers in business classes. Appendix C provides information about the make and model of the computers used by those schools. This information is needed to determine whether or not the software being used is compatible with Ms. Brown's computers. Appendix D allows users of a particular make or computer system to locate other schools using the same system. This information facilitates the distribution of software and software information to users of compatible systems.

From: Thomas G. Clausen, Ph.D., Superintendent of Education

Computers of all kinds are being used more frequently in our schools. We support this trend but feel that teachers need more resources in order to use computers effectively. We are trying to determine what resources should be provided to the schools and to the Central Offices. If you have questions please call Shirley McCandless at (504) 342-0090. Please return by October 30 in the enclosed envelope.
